PRESENTATION: Ennis McCrery and Tamara Cherry-Clarke, Changes to the Code of Student Conduct

Ennis McCrery and Tamara Cherry-Clarke gave an informative presentation on the transformation of the Hokie Handbook to an online and accessible Code of Student Conduct. They see themselves as educators, not disciplinarians, and the new format shows this by updating rules such as “No climbing the buildings” and “No throwing snowballs out the windows” to “Do not cause harm to yourself or others.” Communication with the Student Conduct office is more accommodating to both complainants and respondents, especially for those whom English is not a first language, and scheduling of meetings is more flexible.

The commission very much appreciated hearing this update.

OLD BUSINESS

Meeting minutes for January, February, March and today are due on Friday.

NEW BUSINESS

Officer and liaison nominations for University Governance for 2020-21

The following officers and liaisons were approved for 2020-21:

Christa Miller, chair

Gabby McCollum, vice chair

University Council representative, Sally Shupe

Campus Development Committee, Annabelle Fuselier

PRINCIPLES OF COMMUNITY AWARDS

Stacey Wilkerson announced that the winners of the Presidential Principles of Community Awards are:

Dr. Mae Hey, Recent Individual Contributor (and CEOD member!)

Dr. Carlos Evia, Long Term Individual Contributor

Latin Link, Team Contributor

Information on publicity of these awards will be forthcoming.

OTHER BUSINESS

Discussion ensued about the disproportionate impacts of COVID-19 on persons who were already marginalized. Support for women, many of whom are now caregivers, domestic workers, and homeschool teachers in addition to their full time work, is lacking. There was a question about whether the tenure clock will be extended for tenure-track faculty, and apparently it will. It was noted that economic impacts on low-income students are felt more harshly. Impacts on international faculty, especially those with long-term research abroad, are unknown.

A. Women's Alliance-

- 1. Support systems are gone or lacking due to pandemic, would like university to acknowledge this (e.g. tenure process)

- 3. Comment- Faculty can ask for extension in tenure process
- 4. Concerns that productivity could impact futures of positions

B. Other comments:

- 1. Concerns about disproportionate impact of pandemic on people of color, uncertain if university can do anything to recognize this or assist with
